Joseph W. Folk Attacks the Republican Candidate's Position.

IS SAYING NOTHING LOUDLY.

Opening of the Democratic Campaign is Northeast Missouri at Glenwe Schuyler County-Crowd Taxed the Town.

Glenwood, Mo., Sept. 16.-In opening his campaign in northeast Missouri, Joseph W. Folk to-day attacked the republican position as defined in the recent speeches of Cyrus P. Walbridge, the republican candidate. The effect of the republican argument now advanced, declared Mr. Folk, is to avoid a boodle issue, to condemn boodle disclosures as calculated to give the state a bad name, and to seek boodie votes by saying nothing which might give boodlers offense.

This, he intimated, is the endeavor of the "bosses" to mislead the voting rank and file of an entire party.

In finishing Mr. Folk challenged the republican candidate to meet him in debate at any time or place, and advance a single reason why his party should be placed in power. The opposition candidate is stepping softy and saying nothing with a loud voice," said Mr. Folk.

No Expression on Boodle.

"When a man is a candidate for office he usually announces his principles people. The speeches of the opposition candidate for governor will be searched invain for a single expression of opinion on public questions. He talks of the greatness of Missouri. He should to further and say that Missouri has become great under democratic rule. Because Missouri raises much corn, and Missouri hens lay many eggs, is no reason why the democratic party should be overthrown. That Missouri has become great is no argument why the democratic party should be kept

The opposition candidate is stepping safely and saying sweet things with a good voice. He has not told the people whether he is in favor of taxing corporations the same as individuals. His views on the subject of the taxation of franchises, for instance, are unknown. The people are entitled to know this. as he is the president of a large corporation. Our friend seems to be doing his best to stand for no issue.

The only utterance of a decided nature is deploring the exposures and presentations of corruption in Missouri, because eastern magazines write them up, and thereby injure the state. The suggestion that the defeat of the democratic ticket will remedy this is somewhat involved, unless it means that with the opposition party in control there would be no exposures nor prosecutions to write about, as there were no prospentions in St. Louis while the opposition was in power there.

i can not agree that it is a bad thing for a state to have public evils exposed and prosecuted, or that Miscouri has been hurt in the slightest degree by magazines and newspapers writing up the battle that has been waged in Missouri against corruption.

Missouri a Model. "Missouri has not been criticized for direcuri has been held up as a model for other states to follow.

By resolutely battling against corruption Missouri has become distincontributed as no other state is distin-emissed for good government "It is a matter of regret that anyone should deplore, not the fact that corruption has existed in the state, but that it has been exposed, prosecuted and written about in eastern magazines. Corruption certainly can not be cured by hiding it. The only way to stop it is to fight it, and fight it hard. Any other spirit would mean that nothing would be done to expose corruption or to prosecute it, for ear of hurting the state and to have Missouri run as St. Louis was run in her darkest days.

"There is not an opposition politician In the state who would not admit, if he talls the truth that whatever slim during recent years hope they may have to carry the state s based on the expectation of getting the boodle vote. If this is not so, I lenounce Butler, and say that they do speech, not want the votes of boodlers. They corruptionists, they would have waited until doomsday, judging from their inactivity and passiveness when they had the opportunity. With this record, is it not somewhat presumptious for them to ask to be put into power so they can stamp out corruption? When they were on guard they slept on their beats, while corruptionists held carnivals, Can they be trusted more wide awake

"The opposition managers in Missouri are not fighting corruptionists they want their votes. Again I challenge them to take any stand or give any utterance that would antagonize corrupt elements of either the republican party or the democratic party. Until they do this, good citizens who really want corruption stopped should get under the democratic banner and place the welfare of the state above mere partizan advantage. I believe in the honesty of the rank and file of the republicans, as well as the democratic party, and all are invited to join in this fight.

Candidate Not Tired.

"So far as I am concerned I have been engaged in an encounter with them for three years, and I am not tired yet. I shall continue the conflict, whether I am in high official position or in private life. I have no favor to ask of corruptionists; po quarter to give; I do not want their votes; neither their support.

"If the opposition candidate can give a single reason why the democratic party should be turned out and the republican managers put in control of the state, I am ready and willing to meet him at any time and in any place to discuss the proposition. The democratic party is not afraid to submit its record and what it proposes to do to the test of full and fair discussion."

Folk had been scheduled to deliver a speech at Lancaster, the county seat for the approval or disapproval of the of Schuyler, but a reunion of old soldiers was on at Glenwood, and the occasion was arranged at this place. B. H. Kern accompanied Mr. Folk. They arrived from St. Louis at noon. The candidate was received by a committee and was escorted to the home of Dr. M. E. Rambo Crowd Taxed the Town. To every tree in town a farmer's wagon was hitched. The teams were lined up in every direction, not by the score, but by the hundreds. The whole county turned out. Walbridge was here yesterday, and it is asserted to treble the attendance is not a liberal enough estimate of the increase.

Folk was to speak from a temporary stand in the town park at 1 p. m., but did not begin until 2. Within half an hour 3,000 persons had assembled within earshot. They listened attentively. Applause came at intervals, and at the finish a hearty demonstration took place. But interest and serious attention to his every word, rather than a succession of noisy outbursts, marked the sititude of the farmers.

Folk's return to Schuyler county is significant. It was Schuyler, which, with Mississippi, led the long list of the counties in going to Folk during the race for the nomination. It was to Schuyler that Folk came immediately after the St. Louis primaries, when he made the speech scouring the St. Louis primary outrages. In Schuyler was the beginning of the Folk landslide.

Many Came From Iowa.

Speaking of Iowa, here is another indication of the wonderful strength of the prosecutor candidate. Farmers of both parties from over the line are here to-day.

"I want to shake hands with your next governor," said one. "We need more like him."

Folk enthusiasm was not wanted. exposing boodling, but Missouri has Schuyler is normally about 300 demobeen praised for fighting boodling, and cratic, and it will show a handsome increase this year. Glenwood township, republican by a considerable margin, is considered surely democratic at this election.

Cass Biggs, an editor of Queen City. is the candidate for the legislature. He is regarded as an able young man, and is popular. He will be elected unless all signs fail. Biggs is nominated to succeed A. D. Morris, and runs against George Ralston, also of Queen City. The democratic county ticket likewise

w.ll be successful. Judge Fegle, who was chairman of convention, introduced Mr. Folk, He extolled the "next governor of Missouri" for his "boldness and courage in fighting corruption in politics. "The president has issued an order, through the acting secretary of state directing that the Russian armed transport Lena, now at San Francisco. be taken in custody by the naval authorities of the United States and disarmed. The main features of the condiffers prescribed are that the Lena be taken to the Mare island navy yard and there disarmed by removal of small guns, breechlocks of large guns, small arms, ammunition and ordnance stores and such other dismantlement as may be prescribed by the commandant of the navy yard; that the captain give a written guarantee that the Lena shall not leave San Francisco until peace shall have been concluded; that the officers and crew shall be paroled not to leave San Francisco until some other understanding as to the disposal may be reached between the United States government and both the belligorents; that after disarmament the vessel may be removed to a private dock for such reasonable repairs as will make her seaworthy and preserve her in good condition during her detention, may be so repaired at the navy yard if the Russian commander should so elect: that while at a private dock the commandant of the navy yard at Mare island shall have custody of the ship, and the repairs shall be overseen by an engineer officer, to be detailed by the commandant, and that, when so repaired, if peace shall not then have been concluded, the vessel shall be taken back to the Mare island nav yard and be there held in custody until the end of the war. This action has been taken upon the written request of the commander of the Lena, addressed to Rear-Admiral Goodrich, set-that needful repairs be permitted after disarmament. "The secretary of the navy has telegraphed the president's order to San Rear-Admiral Goodrich and to Capt. McCalle the commandant of

The Course Taken By the United States Satisfies Russia. St. Petersburg, Sept. 17.-The de cision to disarm the Russian cruiser Lens, now at San Francisco and to keep her there until the end of the war, was the result of a communication the credentials committee at the state from Capt. Berlinsky, commander of the vessel, reporting that she required extensive repairs and that it would be difficult to complete them within the period allowed by the United States authorities. The fact, however, that there is little disposition to criticise the decision of the United States shows that the admiralty was not reluctant after receiving the captain's report, to acquiesce in her disarmament. The comment of the Russian press also indicates a recognition of the fairness of the course of the United States, the prompt measures taken to protect the Lena being especially commended.

PRINCE HERBERT BISMARCK DEAD

End Came Peacefully Sunday Morning at Freidrichsruhe.

SON OF GERMAN CHANCELLOR

Since the Retirement of His Illustrious Father in 1890, the Prince Has Taken No Part in Public Affairs of Germany.

Friedrichsruhe, Seut. 19-Prince Herbert Bismarck died Sunday morning at 10:15 o'clock. The end was pain-

Since he ceased to be foreign minister on the retirement of his father in 1890. Prince Herbert Bismarck had taken part in public affairs only as a member of the reichstag. His attitude had been that of a man not appreciated by his sovereign, and who was waiting in the background for an opportunity to resume his career.

His delivery as a parliamentary speaker improved year by year. He always declined to join any political group, steadfastly calling himself an independent. His haughty and imperious manners in early life, when he was ever conscious of the fact that he was the son of the most powerful statesman in Europe, softened in later life. Trained For His Father's Successor

Prince Bismarck's father trained him for his successor as chancellor of the German empire, and advanced him rapidly in the diplomatic service until at the age of 40 he was minister of foreign affairs, in which position he took part in nearly every important international transaction.

An incident that nearly wrecked Prince Herbert's career and that caused the old chancellor great annoyance was Prince (the Count) Herbert's elopement with Princess Carolath Beuthen the wife of Prince Karl, the head of that distinguished Silesian house. The princess was of the Hatzfeldt family, and young Bismarck at the time was his father's private secretary. Count Herbert lived with the princess in southern Italy for a few weeks, and then, at the command of his father, returned to Germany. The princess afterwards was divorced, and has since

The estate is now estimated to be worth $4,000,000, exclusive of the lands.

Sketch of His Life.

Prince Bismarck was born in 1849. was the oldest son of the late Prince Otto Bismarck, the great chancellor of the German empire., He studied law in the Berlin and Bonn universities, served in the Prussian army as a lieutenant of reserves during the Franco-German war of 1870-71, and was severely wounded at the battle of Mars-La-Tour. In 1873 Herbert became an official of the department of foreign affairs, and was assistant to his father, then chancellor. He was attached to the German legations at Berne and at Vienna from 1874 to 1877. Later on, the deceased become councillor of the German embassy in London, and subsequently occupied the same position creditors. Regardless of what the at St. Petersburg. In 1884 he was appointed minister plenniotentiary at The Rague, and 1885 he became under-secretary of state in the department of foreign affairs. This post he held until the dismissal of his father from the chancellorship, when he left the service of the empire. From 1884 to 1887 the deceased was a member of the German reichstag, and also from 1893 until the time of his death. He was married in 1892 to Countess Margaret Hoyes of the Hungarian nobility, and after the death of his father, he inherited the title of prince. The deceased had only one sister, who is the wife of Count von Rentzau. His brother William died

Do Animals Think?

"Animals have keen perceptionskeener in many respects than our own -but they form no conceptions, have no powers of comparing one thing with another. They live entirely in and through their senses. To all that inner world of reflection, imagination, comparison, reason, they are strangers. They never return upon themselves in thought. They have sense of memory, sense of intelligence, and they profit in many ways by experience, but they have not soul memory, or rational intelligence. All the fundamental emotions and appetites men and the lower animals share in common, such as fear, anger, love, hunger, jealousy, cunning, pride, curiosity, play, but the world of thought and thought experience and the emotions that go with it belong to man alone.

"It is as if the psychic world were divided into two planes, one above the other-the plane of sense and the plane of spirit. In the plane of sense live the lower animals, only now and then just breaking for a moment into the higher plane. In the world of sense man is immersed also; this is his start and foundation; but he rises into the plane of spirit, and here lives his proper life. He is emancipated from sense in a way that beasts are not.-John Burroughs, in Harper's Magazine.

ing it. "From the start I got stronger and better until I was well again, and from that time I haven't used a bit of medicine, for I haven't needed any.

"I am so much better in every way, sleep soundly nowadays and am free from the bad dreams. Indeed, this food has made such a great change in me that my wife and daughter have taken it up and we are never without Grape-Nuts on our table nowadays. It is a wonderful sustainer, and we frequently have nothing else at all but a saucer of Grape-Nuts and cream for breakfast or supper." Name given
